

Insurance: Hearings staged locally concerning lower rates

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

A legislative package that would affect auto-insurance rates and policies continues to spark debate as it moves through governmental channels in Lansing.

One public hearing concerning the House-generated legislation was staged in Detroit Aug. 16. A full schedule of hearings is planned for the fall, including one in the Wayne/Westland area Oct. 16.

While area residents tend to show interest in something that might lower their insurance bills, the package has not received a warm reception among area agents.

Sponsoring the legislation are State Reps. James Kosteva (D-Canton Township) and Nelson Saunders (D-Detroit). The package includes several main issues. If approved, customers' rates could not be based on where they live. Thus, people living in Detroit would not be charged more than residents of Sumpter Township.

"Rates would be more in tune with the individual's driving record," Kosteva explained.

In addition, the bill calls for a 20-percent reduction in auto-insurance rates. Rate increases would be subject to approval from the state insurance commissioner.

Other aspects of the legislation include mandatory discounts for good drivers and group coverage. Plus, customers older than 60 years of age would not be required to purchase lost wage provisions.

A final item in the package attempts to eliminate kickback provisions between insurance agencies and body shops. This would impact agents that approve estimates for auto repairs that surpass the actual cost. The agencies and body shops then split the profit, according to Kosteva.

The package would impose penalties for those agencies using this practice.

Most of the provisions in the package are based on citizen complaints, Kosteva said, such as rates based on territory.

Further, the package states a need for increased regulation of insurance agencies, he continued. The basis for raising rates is rarely revealed and company profits have not been reviewed, the lawmaker said.

For now, lawmakers hope to investigate the need for the legislation more fully and gauge public opinion through the hearings.

Some insurance agents, however, are not waiting for the hearings to express concerns.

"This type of legislation is not the solution to the problem," said Fritz Lewis, executive vice president of Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan. "You have to deal with the things that cause costs to go up."

Lewis referred to a similar policy operating in California.

He said coverage rates went down somewhat in Los Angeles, but increased in most other communities. He predicts a similar scenario for Michigan if the legislation is approved.

Currently, the IIA is sponsoring seminars to educate members about the legislation, along with other issues of concern.

Amusement park rides (above) were among the most popular activities for the "13-and-under" crowd at the St. Aloysius Labor Day Festival last weekend. Kimberly (left), 6, and Kyle Ryder, 3, especially enjoyed the boat ride. The fundraiser for St. Aloysius school was staged from Sept. 1 through Sept. 4 on school grounds. If rides were a winner among children in attendance, the bingo and Las Vegas tents were favorites for grown-ups. ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

Holiday festival draws crowd

Despite a little rain, organizers are calling the annual St. Aloysius Labor Day Festival a success.

The traditional fundraising event for St. Aloysius school was staged Sept. 1 through Sept. 4 near the school grounds. Events included children's rides, Las Vegas games, bingo, music and dancing.

"Attendance has been terrific," said Richard Dick, festival chairman. "It's definitely better than last year."

Especially successful during the event were the Las Vegas games and the entertainment, he said.

"The dance floor is always full when the musicians play."

The festival featured several polka bands and a "Top 40 group - Heart and Soul, the Klancnik Brothers, the Polka Towners, Tempo Tones and the Duane Malinowski Polka Jam-boree.

Tony LaRoche, advertising chairman for the festival, added that bingo remains one of the most popular events at the festival.

"It's amazing. The tent is packed from open to close," LaRoche said.

Dick said the mild weather helped with attendance.

The festival generates funds through concession stands, the white elephant sale, continuous raffles and the spaghetti and chicken dinners.

30 local artists are expected to attend local festival

Masterpieces ranging from porcelain dolls to removable tattoos will be on display Sept. 16 during the annual arts and crafts show staged by the Romulus Arts Council.

This will be the fifth year for the event which is expected to feature 30 area artists.

"It's a chance for us to show our crafters and artists," said Gloria Chandler, council treasurer. "Mainly, we want to bring out people who have talent in the community."

Chandler said Romulus once hosted a farmers and crafters market, but the event was phased out over the years.

Now, nearly anyone with a creative touch can show off his or her talent at the arts council event.

"It can be anything, but it has to be homemade," Chandler said.

Among the items to be displayed are sand clowns, pottery, clothespin dolls, lamps from blue mason jars, hand puppets, afghans, prints and removable tattoos. Two participants plan to display creative baked goods.

"There's plenty of time (to register) and room for more," Chandler said.

Participating artists must supply their own table and pay a $10 fee. Those interested in displaying their work at the event, may call Chandler at 941-2678. Sept. 13 is the deadline for registration.

Because the show is staged outdoors, art council members are hoping for clear skies.

"We have been very fortunate in our four or five years. It only rained once and not until 2:00," Chandler said.

In addition to the artistic items, the show will feature a wandering Dixieland band.

The art festival will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

Gas station is site of robbery

A gas station employee was robbed at gunpoint Aug. 29 resulting in the loss of a small amount of cash.

The incident occurred at approximately 5:30 p.m. on the 2900 block of Ecorse.

Apparently, the culprit waited in the station for several minutes before he initiated the robbery, purchasing a pack of cigarettes and looking at merchandise.

Police officials describe the suspect as a black male, five foot six, 160 pounds wearing gold rim metal glasses, a grey and white sweater, black pants and white tennis shoes.

No arrests have been made in this case.

4 arrested for local car theft

Roseville police officials arrested four men Aug. 31 found in a 1989 car reported stolen from Romulus the previous day.

The car owners contacted the police after returning from a three-week vacation and realizing the 1989 Plymouth was missing. It had been parked on the 3100 block of Wick.

The car is valued at $14,000.

Police investigate assault case

No arrests have been made in the case of a 21-year-old Romulus man who was reportedly cut with a broken beer bottle and knocked unconscious by a group of three men Aug. 21.

Apparently, the young man was walking along Beverly Road near Carnegie at 12:30 a.m. when he was approached by a car occupied by three men.

The men allegedly approached the man, cut him with the bottle and struck the man on the head. The man was treated for his injuries at Ann Arbor Hospital in Wayne. He told Romulus police officials he does not know why he was attacked.

Police officials have no suspects in this case.

$15,000 car is reported stolen

Shortly after a 1989 Pontiac Bonneville was reported stolen from the 2800 block of Goddard, the $15,000 car was described in Detroit - stripped.

The car was reported missing from a local parking lot at 8:10 a.m., Aug. 28. Police officials continue to investigate the case.

Local trapshooter wins trophy

A Romulus woman was among the winners earlier this month at the 90th Annual Grand American Trapshooting Tournament in Vandalia, Ohio.

Wanda Solak of Romulus won the Budweiser Handicap Seventh Place trophy with a score of 98 in competition with 4,040 Amateur Trapshooting Association members Aug. 17.

This event is one of 21 staged during the 10-day tournament. ATA members from throughout the United States, Canada, Mexico and Europe competed, more than 30,000 entries. Participants fired at more than 4.5 million targets on the 90 trap, half-mile shooting facility.

Future of city to be discussed

City officials and candidates will meet tomorrow to discuss goals for the city.

The group discussion, "Keeping Romulus on The Move," will be open to the public.

Detroit speaker Lou Farrell will host the event.

The event will begin at 1 p.m. at City Hall. For more information, call the mayor's office at 942-7571.

Used book sale nears

Members of the Friends of the Romulus Library will stage a used book sale in conjunction with the Romulus Art Festival Sept. 16 at the library.

The sale will continue Sept. 18, 19 and 20.

All proceeds from the event will go to the Romulus Public Library. Money from past sales has gone toward the summer reading program.

Those who wish to donate hard- and soft-cover books to the sale can drop them off at the library. Most items are sold for $1 or less.

Arrow is used as weapon

Armed with a bow and arrow, a Romulus man reportedly barricaded himself in his home for several hours Aug. 29.

Romulus police officials were called to the 15000 block of Orchard by a report of a man damaging cars, according to police officials.

A 31-year-old resident of the neighborhood allegedly became involved in an altercation with his newspaper carrier, according to police reports.

Shortly after police officials arrived on the scene, the man had locked himself in his home with the bow and arrow. He reportedly threatened to shoot an arrow at anyone who attempted to enter, police said.

Approximately two hours later, at 7:30 p.m., an arrow was shot at the carrier's car, police officials said.

When the Romulus man left his home at approximately 7:30 p.m., he was hospitalized on the advice of his doctor.

The man was not arrested or charged.

Man injured in robbery

A Romulus business was the target of an armed robbery early Monday morning, resulting in the injury of a 24-year-old Dearborn man.

The Dearborn man, an employee of the business on the 27000 block of Van Born, was stocking shelves at 4:35 a.m. when someone knocked on the door, police officials said.

When the employee investigated, a man pushed his way inside the store and revealed a hand gun, according to police reports.

The employee was hit on the back of the head with the gun and shoved into a bathroom, according to reports. Romulus police officer believe a second man then entered the building.

When the employee recovered, he discovered money had been taken from the cash register. When police officials arrived on the scene, the man refused treatment for the small bump on the back of his head.

The suspect is described as a black male, five-foot-ten-inches tall, 175 pounds, with short hair and a scar on the left side of his face. He was wearing blue jeans and a blue shirt.

No description is available for the second suspect. This incident remains under investigation.

SCHOOL NEWS

A year of hard work awaits Romulus school leader

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Before she is finished, Amy Anderson hopes more people in the community have heard good things about Romulus Senior High School.

Anderson, who will be a senior this year, is preparing to assume the position of student-government president. In that role, she will become a type of liaison between her classmates and school officials. If students have a concern, she will be available.

"I can go to the administration for them," Anderson explained.

Since she was a freshman, Anderson knew she wanted to be active in student government. As she entered high school, her older brother was beginning his term as president. His role immediately appealed to her.

Anderson participated in leadership classes and began entering school elections. During her sophomore year, she served as class vice president.

As an assistant in the main office during the summer, Anderson has already worked closely with Principal Tom Dolan and other school officials.

"I always know what's happening, and what's expected of me," she said. With the school year beginning in less than a week, Anderson has some specific ideas about what she would like to accomplish.

"I would like to see the Romulus high school known for its student government," she began.

Already, the word is out about a strong school wrestling team and successful business clubs.

"They always place well in regional and state competitions," Anderson remarked.

Less publicized, is the rapport among students in the building.

"There's always problems, but as a whole we all get along."

Despite her optimism about the school, Anderson is anticipating some challenges from her new job.

"I'm really excited about finding a good project I want to accomplish," she said.

Anderson wants to set a project in motion that will be running smoothly by the time she leaves school. At this point, however, she does not have specific ideas. One possibility is a major fund-raising promotion for student activities. Initiating this project will definitely be a challenge, Anderson said.

All student-government participants will have their hands full early in the school year as they begin organizing homecoming activities. They will be responsible for arranging the parade, spirit week, a pep assembly, and a half-time show. They also announce winners of the spirit jug and float competition.

"It's really hectic. There's a lot of phone calls, a lot of messages. It's tough to get a hold of everyone," Anderson said.

Student government leaders have already started discussing homecoming plans during meetings staged this summer.

"We're not going into in blind at the beginning of the year," Anderson said.

Ultimately, Anderson hopes to make a difference for future student leaders.

"I want it to be easier for next year's student president," she said.

Some improvement in the selection of class officers and student-government leaders has already come about, Anderson said. No longer do students elect people because of their popularity.

When Anderson won the election, the current president described her job and wished Anderson good luck. Anderson wants solid material to offer at the end of this year — a job description, recent accomplishments of the organization, ongoing projects and possible goals.

"Maybe every year it can be just better and better," Anderson added.

Although she has not selected a college, Anderson has decided to pursue a career in law and political science. And yes, she does hope to remain active in politics.

Other student-government leaders for the 1989-90 school year are: Christine Fortune, vice president; Becky Bales, secretary; Susan Hamel, treasurer and Angie Salmons, parliamentarian.

Romulus Senior High School student-government president Amy Anderson (above) has great expectations for her school. She hopes to use her position to initiate new fund-raising activities, plan programs for students and work to improve the image of the high school in the community. DON'T FORGET TO VOTE SEPTEMBER 12TH TO RE-ELECT MAYOR BEVERLY McANALLY

"A MAYOR FOR ALL THE PEOPLE"

CITY ELECTIONS GUIDE

Romulus mayor candidates

Vote for 2 of 3 candidates

Earl Champagne

Zenobia Jones

Beverly McAnally

Candidates' biographical information

Earl Norman Champagne, 34, is single. He is a 34-year resident of Romulus. He is a 1973 graduate of Romulus Senior High School. He is a crew leader of building maintenance for the city of Romulus. He has never campaigned for political office.

Candidate questionnaire was not returned.

Beverly J. McAnally, 62, is a widow and has three children. She has lived in Romulus for 25 years. She is a graduate of Southeast High School and she attended Park College, University of Kansas City and Kansas City Art Institute. She is currently the mayor of Romulus, having been elected in 1983. Prior to being elected mayor, she was elected to city council and served as treasurer.

Why did you decide to seek this office?

I feel it is time for new blood. A time for someone with a progressive yet conservative style. Someone who is not a career politician. I think it's time to put someone in office that has the best interest of the citizens of Romulus in office, and not someone who is out for personal gain.

Because I could see the missed opportunities for the community to prosper. I believed I could bring prominence, and opportunity for employment to our city by utilizing our proximity to the airport as a selling point. I thought I could do more than was being done for the people.

Why do you feel you are qualified?

Over ten years of public service. Fresh ideas. An open mindedness that will be necessary for the city of Romulus to grow.

My long history of community service and the success I have realized at each level enables me to know how to access the system to get results.

What do you feel are the major issues involved?

Having a balanced budget. Explore room tax on hotels. Stop tax abatements. Compliance with Safe Drinking Water Act P.A. 399. Rid the city of cronyism.

My major issue will be to expand our attack on the drug trafficking and the education/prevention effort. We must continue to be vigilant against unwarranted incursion of the airport into the community.

New law to set back odometer fraud

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

A recently instituted state law is designed to guard against odometer tampering on new cars. Local used-car dealers, however, have said they already work diligently to prevent such activity. Public Act 470 of 1988 designated odometer tampering as a felony. Prior to the legislation, tampering with odometers was a misdemeanor. But state Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth), who was a supporter of the law, said the felony designation makes it more likely that prosecutors will take action against violators.

"If you are caught lying, there are some really stiff penalties," Law said. "You could even lose your license."

According to Law, the new requirements state that a person who sells a car to a dealer must sign a slip that verifies the mileage.

In order to catch a tamperer, however, law-enforcement officials often have to engage in decoy activity.

"The only way you're going to catch somebody is to go in with a car with a high mileage, mark down the sheet, and go back and say, 'I want to buy it,'" Law said.

But local used-car dealers said they have had few problems with odometer tampering, because they have always taken preventative measures. Cliff St. Cyr, manager of Atchinson Ford Sales Inc., in Belleville, said his dealership believes in going the extra mile to protect itself on the odometer issue.

"We've always taken the stance that we get odometer readings religiously," St. Cyr said. "We have the supporting document, and we've never had a problem."

Bill Gattis, manager of Hallmark Motor Company, in Wayne, said he buys his cars new from dealerships, and has never had the problem of odometer tampering.

According to Gattis, many of the cars that experience odometer tampering are lease cars, and are sold at auctions. Such cars can be tampered with in other ways, Gattis said, to make them appear in better condition than they really are. "They buy them all slicked up," Gattis said. "Put a nice vinyl roof on them."

One requirement of the law is that the mileage reading must be printed on the front of all new titles issued for cars 10 years old or newer.

New abortion battle is brewing

Pro-choice advocates see hope

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

The battle over abortion is just beginning in Lansing, but one local pro-choice activist is supportive of an attempt to put the debate in a pro-choice perspective.

Catalina Hall, president of the National Organization for Women, Downriver chapter, said she supports an attempt to stop any anti-abortion legislation.

Proposed legislation, sponsored by state Rep. Maxine Berman (D-Southfield) would stipulate that Michigan will pass no law to "force a woman to complete or terminate a pregnancy."

Although it is worded like a constitutional amendment, the proposal could be overturned by subsequent legislation.

But Hall said it has important significance.

"It is a very good way of coming to a pro-choice understanding," she said.

Pro-life activists have said Berman's bill has little chance of gaining approval, because the Michigan legislature has recently been dominated by pro-life legislators.

But Hall, who refers to the pro-life lobby as "anti-choice," said a similar law was passed in New Hampshire, by a legislature that had previously supported anti-abortion stances. The bill was later vetoed by the governor.

"(The legislature) had always aligned itself as being anti-choice," Hall said.

Hall acknowledged that the Berman bill could be overturned by other bills, but said it should not be used as an excuse for pro-life legislators to oppose it.

"Of course it could happen," Hall said. "That's a reality of life. They want to give anti-choice legislators an out."

The essential issue, according to Hall, is for government to stay out of women's decisions on abortion.

"This is a way for you to realize that women will have to make this difficult decision on their own," Hall said.

While she stands firmly in favor of abortion rights, Hall said pro-choice people have more respect for the opposing side than pro-life people.

"We very much respect the right of women who say, 'No, I don't want an abortion. I think it's murder,'" Hall said.

Abortion foes want total ban

By DANIEL CALABRESE
ANP Staff Writer

Local foes of abortion expressed little concern last week for a pending pro-choice initiative in the Michigan legislature.

State Rep. Maxine Berman (D-Southfield) has proposed legislation that would prohibit any attempt to restrict abortion in Michigan.

But Mary Dahn, a right-to-life advocate in Canton Township, and Alice Radwick, president of Wayne-Westland Right to Life-Lifespan, said Berman's proposal will probably go nowhere in Lansing.

"I don't think Maxine Berman speaks on behalf of the majority of the people of Michigan," Dahn said. "When 60 percent of the people voted for Proposal A, they understood that they weren't voting in favor of abortion."

Proposal A, a 1988 voter initiative, prohibited the use of state Medicaid funds to pay for abortions.

A prestigious visitor

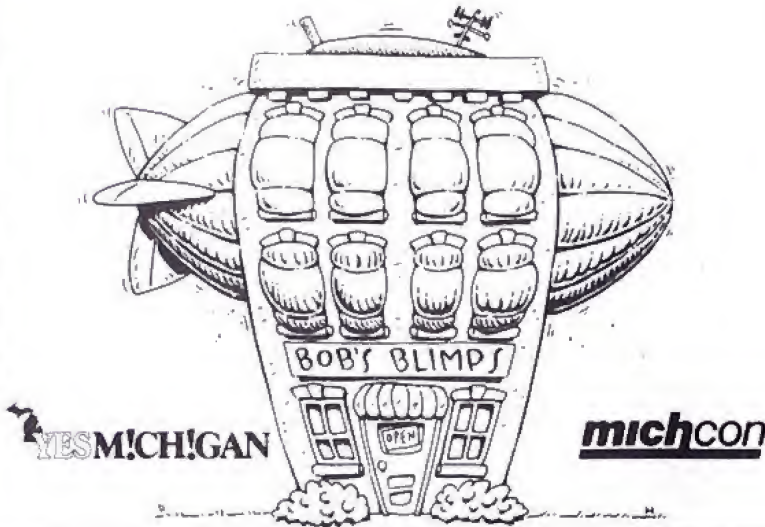

Getting a computer lesson from a sixth-grade Vandenberg school student is Gov. James J. Blanchard (above). Student Michael Frank presented a computer demonstration as part of the governor's Aug. 30 visit to the Wayne elementary school. Blanchard chose the school as the site for the official signing of the $2.6 billion school aid bill for kindergarten through 12th-grade education. The legislation provides new funding for pre-school education, school-improvement planning and the Governor's Achievement Incentive program. Also attending the presentation were school and city officials of Wayne, Westland and Wayne County, as well as state Rep. Justine Barns (D-Westland) and Sen. George Hart. ANP photo by Barbara Wilson

Our choices for good government

Will your neighbor be casting your vote for the future? If you join the 85 percent or more of the people who don't vote in municipal primary elections, your answer - sadly - will be "yes."

Primary elections will be staged Tuesday in the cities of Westland and Romulus. Many voters, we fear, will disregard the need to vote, thinking that the primary is an "optional election" and is unimportant. Such a theory is far from the truth.

Primary elections are necessary - by state law - when more than two people file for the same elected office. Thus, four council seats are available in Westland, but 12 candidates have filed for office. The primary election will narrow the field to eight council candidates.

Likewise, four candidates seek the mayor's job in Westland, three in Romulus. The primary election Tuesday will narrow the field of mayoral candidates to two in each community.

Primary elections, thus, are as integral to the democratic election-process as the general election, which will be staged Nov. 7. The burden of selecting qualified candidates is just as substantial in both elections.

Below you will find the "votes" we will cast in the primary election Tuesday. We have selected as many candidates as you will be asked to select when entering the voting booth.

Our endorsements are not predictions of the winners. Rather, they are the products of months of study of the candidates, years of experience in analyzing the political history of these communities and countless hours of reporting the news and views surrounding each candidate participating in this election.

We, of course, ask that you share our endorsements and consider those whom we support as candidates you should support. But, above all, we ask that you join your neighbors in accepting the responsibility of American democracy and participate in the primary election Tuesday.

We support:

City of Romulus

For mayor, our choices are incumbent Mayor Beverly McAnally and challenger Earl Champagne.

McAnally, clearly, has the years of experience, the dedication, the drive and the spirit to lead the city for another two years. Mayor since 1983, McAnally is an obvious contender in the primary battle.

Champagne, a newcomer to the mayoral political ring, is the only other candidate who is serious about the mayor's race. Champagne has new ideas, more than 10 years of municipal-employee experience and good values.

City of Westland

For mayor, we support incumbent Mayor Charles Griffin and Thomas Artley, who is currently a city councilman.

Griffin's campaign slogans are no lie. He truly has restored a spirit of cooperation in local government, a spirit that is working for the city, instead of against it.

Artley's 12 years on the city council make his knowledge of city government worthy of praise. His ideas and goals are also impressive.

For city council, we support incumbent Councilmen Benjamin DeHart, William Ziembra and Kenneth Mehl. We also offer our endorsement of candidates Ethel Bollinger, Michael Bradley, Sandra Cicirelli, Terri Reighard-Johnson and Richard Ringer.

The incumbents have shown their true colors - their experience, their dedication, their community spirit, their opinions and their worth. They deserve another chance to serve the community.

Each of the newcomers we support has also offered impressive goals for the community, new ideas and a history of civic commitment. These candidates also deserve a chance to show the community what they can accomplish.

Success of event is due to many

This letter is to personally and publicly thank the many companies and service organizations. Wayne Community Center personnel and volunteers who showed tremendous support during the recent 1989 ISIA figure-skating championships.

Companies worthy of praise include Ford Motor Co., Michigan Bell, National Bank of Detroit and the Chrysler Corp.

Service organizations to thank include the Wayne Chamber of Commerce, Wayne Civilians, Wayne Kiwanis Club, Wayne Youth Hockey Association, Wayne Rotary Club, Wayne Figure Skating Booster Club and Dearborn Figure Skating Boosters.

Businesses to thank include American Speedy Printing, Don Massey Cadillac, James Roast Beef and Ice Cream, Mark Chevrolet, McDonald's on Ford Road and Merriman Road, Parkway Office Supply, Red Holman Pontiac, Wayne Cablevision, Wayne Hardee's Restaurants, Weiser Iron and Metal and the Burger King in Roseville.

The volunteers who donated many hours prior to and during such a prestigious event are the mainstay of any undertaking, such as this. A special thank you goes to all city of Wayne officials, recreation advisory board members and Wayne residents for their considerable support and goodwill show to the many out-of-state, as well as out-of-country skating competitors and families during the week of the championships.

I think the following best sums up all of our feelings and thoughts:

Justine Smith, executive director of the Ice Skating Institute of America, said, "Congratulations to all on behalf of the ISIA Board of Directors, the national office and the thousands of happy participants."

Parental consent needed in abortions

Here is a little food for thought concerning state legislation which could require parental notification and/or consent for those people 18 or younger desiring to obtain an abortion in the state of Michigan.

I would respectfully request that all people, whether involved in the political aspect of this issue or not, consider the following terms and their definitions, according to Webster's Dictionary.

- Woman - An adult female (womanliness - befitting a mature woman).

- Adolescence - Stage between childhood and manhood/womanhood; adolescent - youth.

- Minor - The state of being underage; youth.

One will notice that both an adolescent and a minor have a major trait in common. Both are considered youth. One will further notice that a woman is an adolescent nor a minor is a considered an adult, implying "woman." By not placing certain restrictions, such as requiring parental notification and/or consent for people younger than 18 wanting an abortion, there is affect a "woman." On the other hand, requiring such legislation would definitely affect a minor or adolescent and her parents and/or guardian.

Obviously, the potential requiring of parental notification and/or consent would hardly affect a "woman." On the other hand, requiring such legislation would definitely affect a minor or adolescent and her parents and/or guardian. The reasoning for this is apparent. Young people need guidance in their decision-making, as they have not yet acquired either the years, wisdom or experience on which to base a sound decision. Parental guidance and support can be of maximum importance to a youth who finds herself dealing with an unwanted pregnancy. A young girl is not automatically transformed into a woman simply because she conceives.

Emotional maturity takes years to develop. Isn't the real issue of requiring parental notification and/or consent that of defining and dealing with two distinct groups of people - youth as opposed to "woman"? Not requiring parental notification and/or consent for people younger than 18 wanting an abortion suggests that parents have no right to be involved in what could be a crucial area of their child's life, when sound advice and support is more needed than ever.

It further suggests that, although some people may be pro-abortion, this does not necessarily mean that they are pro-woman, pro-youth, pro-parent or pro-family. There are many pro-choice votes to be obtained for many different reasons. Consider them all.

Suffice it to say that neither

"Women's rights" have nothing to do with this issue at all!

I don't know how to solve it, but I don't think the answer is by sending millions of dollars to Columbia.

How about stopping the drugs at their source?

Tamme Quinn

I think it's harder to stop it outside the country than when it comes into ours. So, they should pay more attention when it is imported.

some love

Nobody ever said this was going to be easy. And they were right.

Simplicity is the secret ingredient in most truly wonderful desserts, but once in a while, it seems appropriate to offer a recipe which challenges cooks, of even experienced cooks. Actually, this wonderful treat isn't as hard to create as it is to find the ingredients which go into it. And, the real work is in preparing the apricots, which doesn't take much culinary talent, just a great deal of patience.

Now, don't be alarmed when you see that this calls for millet meal. It can be found in just about any health food store and it isn't expensive. It is necessary, however, as the relationship of the flours is the secret to the right texture and richness of the crust. The apricots can easily be found at one of the multitude of new produce stores in the area, and also can be purchased without too much strain on the budget.

It is important that only full-fat cream cheese be used as reduced-fat or low-calorie products won't produce the proper results in the filling.

This is a very homespun-type treat and yet has an elegance almost unmatched even by the intricately decorated and prepared French pastries. Baked in a round pan, at least part of the pleasure of this dessert is allowing guests and family to admire it before slicing into the treat.

Apricot cheesecake with almonds

- 3 1/2 cups wholewheat flour
- 1 cup millet meal
- 1/4 cup fresh yeast (yes, 1/4 cup)
- 3/4 cup lukewarm milk
- 1 3/4 cup honey
- 3 eggs
- Pinch salt
- Grated rind of 1/2 orange
- 1/4 cup candied orange peel, very finely chopped
- Butter to grease pan
- Graham cracker crumbs
- 7 cups fresh apricots
- 1/2 cup almonds
- 1 3/4 cups full-fat cream cheese
- Juice of 2 oranges
- 1 tablespoon apricot brandy

Mix the flour and millet meal in a bowl. Make a well in the center and crumble the yeast into it. Make a small amount of dough in the center with some milk and a little flour from the edge. Let stand for 15 minutes. Add to this the remaining milk and salt. Dot the butter around the edge in small pieces. Work all the ingredients to a smooth dough and beat it until it leaves the edge of the bowl and has bubbles in it. Leave to stand for at least 30 minutes covered with a cloth until it has clearly increased in size. Grease a baking tray with butter and line with graham cracker crumbs.

Knead the dough again. Work in 1 cup honey, 1 egg and the candied peel. Let stand for a short time. Knead the dough once more, roll out onto the pan and leave to stand for a short time. Preheat the oven to 400 degrees. Wash, dry, halve and pit the apricots. Pour boiling water over the almonds. Skin them, dry thoroughly and halve them. Beat the cream cheese with the remaining two eggs and 1/2 cup honey and flavor with the juice of 1 orange and the apricot brandy. Spread onto the dough and lay the apricots close together on top. Lay 1 almond half in each apricot half and bake the cake on the middle shelf of the oven for 45 to 50 minutes. Stir the remaining honey with the leftover orange juice, brush onto the fruit and allow to cool.

KIDS ARE COOKIN'

Educator helps teach love for culinary arts

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Whether they will develop a love for cooking or simply enjoy the idea of being independent depends on the child, but some youngsters in the area are receiving an early introduction to the kitchen.

The children, preschoolers and kindergartners, are students of the New Morning School, a parent cooperative in Plymouth Township.

When students at the school decide they want a snack, they enter their fully-equipped, made-to-fit kitchen and go to work. Before the day begins, ingredients and recipe cards have been displayed. Signs reminding the young cooks to wash their hands are permanently posted.

Students usually cook three at a time, preparing their food assembly-line style. Nearby is a table complete with a napkin holder and flowers for a leisurely snack.

Of course the inability to read can pose a challenge when attempting to read a recipe. Thus, special cards illustrating each step of preparation are supplied. Nearly all of them were made by artistic parents. Marilyn Romack, teacher for the program, stores a huge box of these recipes ranging from strawberry blender drinks to tacos. Categories include breakfast, drinks, dips and snacks, desserts, fruit, salads, puddings, soups, seasonal recipes and French recipes.

By preparing their own snacks, the young children are learning more than cooking skills, Romack said.

"It was a way of incorporating all areas (of learning) into one thing," Romack explained. "The kids really learn a lot."

For instance, when they see how different ingredients affect each other, the children obtain a taste of science. They also gain counting and math skills, patience, the ability to follow directions, social skills and self-confidence.

The advice Romack offers to parents who help with the program applies to anyone who wants to teach young children to cook. She recommends resisting the urge to step in while the children cook, to keep hands behind the back and talk the young cooks through the process.

"They can do their own cutting, their own mixing," Romack explained.

There are some ways to facilitate the children's job. Romack suggests these: have all ingredients available, do not supply them with items too large or heavy to handle such as two-gallon pitchers and explain food preparation in brief, simplified steps.

"They can help make anything," Romack said.

The youngest students in the class are two-and-a-half years old.

Romack admitted the idea of toddlers in the kitchen has been an adjustment for students and parents.

"Some (youngsters) come here from being very directed at home," she said.

Romack recalled one student who was positive he would spill his soup if he tried to carry it from the kitchen to the dining table. After continuous encouragement, he reluctantly tried and was able to make it to the table without spilling a drop.

"It makes them feel good when they can do things on their own," Romack said.

After his success in school, that young boy told his mother he wanted to help her at home.

Romack and her students have shared some of the recipes straight from their classroom cards. Unfortunately, the pictures cannot be included.

Sprinkle yeast in bowl filled with warm water. When the yeast dissolves, stir the water. Add sugar, flour and grated cheese. Stir ingredients and knead the resulting dough. Cut dough into 4 pieces. Roll pieces into "worms" and shape them. Brush dough with beaten egg. Sprinkle with kosher salt. Bake in 425-degree oven 15 minutes. (Parents or teachers may take over when ovens come into use).

Pizza

- 1/2 English muffin
- 1 tablespoon pizza sauce
- 5 slices pepperoni

When students at the New Morning School, in Plymouth Township, decide they want a snack, they prepare the food themselves in a child-size kitchen. BEAUTIFUL BALI

The island of Bali is noted for the beauty and variety of its scenery;
lush tropical landscapes traversed by cascading mountain waterfalls and wide sandy beaches, volcanic mountains and velvety rice terraces cut into hillsides.

Add the charm of the Balinese people - the excitement of their music, art, dance and holy festivals - and you have the loveliest of the 13,677 islands of the Indonesian archipelago.

Your first introduction to Bali will be Denpasar, capital city and location of the airport. It is the main tourist center and most interesting in the evening when you can wander about food stalls and large town markets. A variety of crafts and bargains can be found. The majority of tourists stay six miles to the east at Sanur Beach, location of the premier hotels. Kuta, to the south has the best beach and is popular with younger travelers.

Temples are the centers of the arts and there are an enormous number of them in Bali. Lavish gateways, monumental sculptures, massive stone carvings of demonic faces adorn them. If you are looking for a memorable getaway, Bali is a unique experience.

Belleville, Romulus are off to winning start

Tigers top Rams, 28-14

Belleville made Taylor Center pay to play. Coach Sam Villa's Tigers cashed in on a relentless defense that punished the Rams, while running back John Perry had a field day on offense, rushing for 87-yards and two touchdowns in 14 carries to lead Belleville to a 28-14 victory over their nonleague rivals Friday.

It was the season opener for both teams.

"It was a nice way to start the season," said Villa, who was named interim coach in August after former Tiger Coach Dave McCarney accepted a principalship in a school district near Saginaw at the beginning of the season.

Villa, a former Belleville grid star and an assistant coach for the past seven years, moved into the interimship with handcuffs on. Because the school district lacks funds, athletes were asked to pay $250 each to help defray the cost of the varsity sports program.

Whatever their problems, the Tigers didn't reveal them to the Rams. They jumped to a 6-0 lead in the early stages of the game as senior quarterback Jeremy Ison engineered a 75-yard drive that was culminated with Perry's seven-yard TD run.

Because of a bad snap from center, kicker Todd Yocum missed the extra point.

The Tigers made it a 12-0 game early in the second stanza as again Perry bolted through the porous Ram defense from the four-yard line for his second score of the game. The TD was set up by nose guard Andrew Wells, who recovered a Ram fumble at the 28.

Yocum's second point-after sailed through the goal posts.

Before the initial half ended, Belleville was on the scoreboard again, this time Ison made it over the crease from the two. And again it was another TC turnover that helped the Tigers. Defensive end Kahill Abdullah pounced on a loose ball at the 27. Yocum's PAT lit up the scoreboard, making it 20-0.

The Tigers added a safety before the half as tackle Tom Herces nailed the Taylor Center QB in the end zone for the two-pointer.

However, the Rams returned to the gridiron and gave the visitors a scare. They scored twice to close the gap, 22-14, before the Tigers tallied their final TD of the game on Chris Zaccaria's one-yarder as time ran out.

With their rushing game clicking, Ison didn't need to go to the air as much as he wanted to. He did, however, click on one of three passes. One of those went to Ron Hunter, a 28-

With Michael Poplar (12) clearing the path for tight end Arthur Asberry (81), Inkster (dark jerseys, above) struck for a second quarter touchdown Friday afternoon in the 1989 season opener against Saginaw Buena Vista. However, the Vikings couldn't hang on and bowed 24-6 to their nonconference rivals. In the photo at the right, Inkster quarterback Fred Stevens falls upon an obstacle in the form of a Buena Vista defender who hangs on and eventually stops the Viking QB. The loss spoiled the coaching debut of Ron Gardner, who took over the Vikings this year. Inkster will launch the Suburban Athletic Conference phase of the campaign Friday against River Rouge, a team that "matches up evenly with the Vikings", according to Gardner. Exchange student keys Eagles' victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Taylor Truman was one of the teams picked to win the Tri-River Conference football championship this season.

But that didn't faze first-year Romulus coach Dan Henry or his Eagles who came back from deficits of 6-3 and 14-7 to pull out a 19-14 nonconference victory over their hosts.

"There were some things I saw out there that pleased us, but we have a whole lot of work to do, especially with our defensive front people if we are to continue to win," Henry said.

The Eagles will go after win No. 2 on the home field - (Romulus' home games are at the Junior High School), clashing with Garden City. The Cougars were humiliated in their opener by Wayne Memorial which claimed an easy 50-7 victory.

"I can't understand that score," Henry said referring to the Wayne-Garden City game. "Garden City was expected to be a title contender in their league, and look what happened."

Henry said that he doesn't expect Garden City to fall over an die when they take the field Friday night. "I believe Bob will have his team ready for us."

Henry was referring to Garden City Coach Bob Eisminger, a former Westland John Glenn All-Area griddier who has taken over the reins of the team.

Kickoff Friday night is 7:30.

In the meantime, Romulus used some foreign exchange to cash in on its victory over Truman. Nick Kristiansen, a junior from Norway and a soccer-type kicker, booted a pair of field goals and converted on a point-after to account for seven of the Eagles' 19 points.

"He's a good one - very coachable and personable," Henry said.

It was Kristiansen who got the Eagles on the scoreboard in the opening quarter. After a Romulus drive stalled, Henry called on Kristiansen, appearing in his first American football game, connected on a 37-yarder to lift the Eagles to a 3-0 lead.

However, that lead was short-lived as Truman came back in the second period with their first TD.

When the two teams dispersed for after the first half, Truman enjoyed a 6-3 edge.

Romulus QB Chris Jones got down to business and put together an eight-play, midfield drive that fullback Eric Robinson finished off with a one-yard TD plunge. Kristiansen booted the extra point, giving the Eagles the lead again 10-6.

In the ensuing Taylor series, Truman managed again to erase the deficit thanks to a 70-yard touchdown run. Truman's bid for a two-point conversion was foiled by a bad snap.

Romulus again trailed - this time 14-10.

But the Eagles refused to quit. Jones marched the Eagles 60 yards and culminated the drive with a 21-yard direct hit to flanker Virgil Davis, who went in for his first TD of the season.

Truman now had the ball with 3 1/2 minutes remaining in the game. Their bid for the go-ahead TD, however, was aborted by Davis who picked off a delinquent pass at the Truman 17. Before the Eagles gave up the ball, Kristiansen again was given an opportunity and he kicked a 22-yard field goal.

Jones was on target for 10 of 15 passes, good for 110-yards and one TD. Eben Smith had a ball as he rushed for 68 yards and 12 carries while Smith surfaced with a pair of interceptions from his wide corner position and caught a TD pass.

Smith and free safety Tim Kosikowski, who contributed four key tackles, were commended by their coach.

"But, we definitely need work on our defensive front people," Henry said. "We won't get far in our league unless we improve."

Romulus competes in the South Central Conference where the Eagles have failed to win a game since entering the SCC two years ago.

In other games involving SCC affiliates, state-ranked Ann Arbor Pioneer jolted arch-rival, East Lansing, 24-14; Ann Arbor Huron destroyed Howell, 31-8; Adrian defeated Jackson, 33-17, and Ypsilanti High overpowered Lansing Eastern, 23-6.

3 late Saginaw touchdowns topple Inkster

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

It wasn't the best or the worst of opening games, but first-year Inkster football Coach Ron Gardner is satisfied that his "Vikings displayed class" in their opening day 24-6 setback on the home field to Saginaw Buena Vista.

"We gave them a lot to think about for three quarters," Gardner, a former Cleveland Browns and New York Giants player-turned coach. "I believe fatigue caught up to us in the fourth period, and that was the difference in this game."

The score was deadlocked going into the final stanza when the visiting Saginaw team exploded for three touchdowns to break a 6-6 tie.

Buena Vista drew first blood, getting on the scoreboard in the first period. The Vikings came back in the next frame as quarterback Fred Stevens put together a 75-yard drive that was polished off with a 35-yard touchdown pass to flanker Art Asbury.

The two nonleague teams couldn't break the deadlock until the final quarter.

"Most of our players have to see action both ways," Gardner said. "That took its toll in the closing minutes."

Despite three interceptions, Stevens played an outstanding first game, according to the Viking coach. "Our inexperience on the line is partially the blame for our turnovers," said Gardner, who commended the first-game performance of his quarterback.

The Vikings also committed six fumbles that erased at least three separate TD drives.

Inkster's defense, led by Don Crockett, a defensive end, was called up to repel Buena Vista on two separate occasions at the goal line. "Those goal line stands showed me that these kids are not quitters. They made the opposition fight for every inch."

Crockett came away with 14 tackles, half of those unassisted.

Germain Jackson, a tailback, piled up 75 yards on 10 rushes and running back Will Jones chipped in another 45 yards thanks to nine carries.

Stevens connected on four passes, two to Kevin Ellison; one each to Jackson and Asbury.

Double trouble: Twins lead Huron past Annapolis, 22-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

If Dearborn Heights Annapolis gridders complained after their encounter with New Boston Huron Friday that they were seeing "double", it's understandable.

The Cougars had to contend with two hard-running, elusive twins - Paul and Pete Hill, who led the Chiefs to a lopsided 22-0 victory over Annapolis in the season's nonconference opener.

Paul, an All-Area quarterback as a junior, started his final prep season chalking up 101 yards on the ground and scoring two touchdowns on runs of 10 and 13. Brother Pete, a fullback, also chipped in a TD, going over the crease from three-yards out. Pete also accounted for a two-point conversion.

The victory also marked the coaching debut of Greg Hammond, who took over the team from Tom Labeau.

Pleased with the first-game victory, Hammond said his team's performance "was about 200 percent better than the scrimmage we had earlier."

"We didn't look good in our final scrimmage and that gave me some concerns," Hammond said. "We looked good Friday, especially our defense."

Hammond said the defense held Annapolis to minus eight-yards rushing.

Hammond and the Chiefs expect to be underdogs Friday night in their home and conference opener against Monroe Jefferson, a team that qualified last year for the Class B state playoffs after finishing second to Riverview in the Huron Conference. Jefferson shut out Ida, 21-0, in their opener last week.

"They're a team that will come right at you," Hammond said. "They don't throw a lot-they threw only three against Ida. We're going to have our hands full against them, believe me."

Huron broke into the scoring column early with a two-point safety, then Paul Hill scored his 13-yarder in the second quarter to give the Chiefs an 8-0 lead at halftime. Brother Pete scored his TD and two-pointer in the third period and Paul came back with the final tally - a 10-yarder in the last quarter.

The Chiefs also received an outstanding performance from their junior tailback, Scott Lowry, who rushed for 77 yards in 15 attempts. Huron amassed a total of 246 yards on the ground and 33 in the air for a total of 276, while carding 14 first downs.

The Chiefs have at least one player on the doubtful starting list for the Jefferson game. Dave Voike, a senior outside linebacker who doubles as a tight end, may be sidelined due to a sprained ankle.

In other games involving Huron Conference teams: Allen Park downed Grosse Ile, 14-8; Flat Rock buried Dundee, 28-0, while Milan emerged with an easy 49-14 victory over Airport; Riverview pulled out a close 24-23 victory over Gabriel Richard; and Temperance Bedford stopped Carlson 31-7.

yarder that kept the first TD drive alive.

Belleville also received a sterling first game from Jim Wagoner, who had eight rushes for 56 yards, and Zaccaria picked up 44 yards on seven chances.

Defensively, senior nose guard Wells played an exceptional game while Hunter, a junior linebacker - tight end - proves he is his brother, Kevin's equal. Kevin was an All-Area performer for the Tigers a year ago. Tackle Jim Smith also led the defensive corps.

Belleville will open the Wolverine 'A' Conference campaign Friday night against Lincoln Park. The Parkers are coming off of a hard-earned 14-7 victory over Harper Woods Notre Dame, and Villa sizes up the pending confrontation as one of equals.

"Lincoln Park was one of the three pre-season picks to win the conference title this year," Villa said. "And they have plenty of talent."

"However, I feel we can give them all they can handle, if our kids eliminate their errors. It should be an excellent game."

In other games involving Wolverine 'A' Conference teams: Monroe lost to Plymouth Canton, 30-14; Wayne Memorial humiliated Garden City, 50-7; Plymouth Salem turned back Trenton, 21-12; and Woodhaven defeated Southgate Anderson, 28-0.

quarters," he said. "It will be another close game, I have no doubts about that because we scouted them and I believe we are equals."

In other games involving SAC teams: Oak Park surfaced with a 12-2 victory over Dearborn Heights Crestwood; Willow Run needed a pair of overtime periods to turn back Ypsilanti Lincoln, 20-12; Westland John Glenn escaped Highland Park 28-22, while Dearborn Heights Robichaud fell to Saline, 24-0.

Rockets thwart Zebras' comeback attempt

John Glenn sophomores Carrie Rachwal and Cathy Mruk each scored 14 points and the Rockets fought off a late rally by Wayne Memorial to win their first game of the season, Aug. 31.

It was the season-opener for both schools as John Glenn spoiled the coaching debut of Jack Furlong.

The Rockets, who lost the city title to the Zebras last season, regained bragging rights by jumping out to an early lead. Glenn led 10-6 after the first quarter and 26-22 at halftime.

In the third quarter, the Rockets extended the lead to 44-35 and jumped out to a 13-point lead in the fourth quarter before the Zebras came storming back. But some crucial free throws and not enough time on the clock did in the Zebras.

BASKETBALL

"We started playing well in the fourth quarter, but it was too late," Furlong said. "I was pleased with the way we played and the fact that we didn't give up."

Both the Rockets and Zebras are extremely young and the inexperience showed in the first quarter.

"We started off slow," said Furlong. "I thought if we could get an early lead it would really help us, but they were ready and got the lead."

Maya Lewis (22 points) and Doris Bathwell (17 points) led the Wayne comeback and impressed Glenn coach Pat Bennett.

"We kept pressure on Maya early and that was a key," Bennett said. "She played better in the fourth quarter, and I think by the time the middle of the season comes around, she is going to be very difficult to stop.

"Bathwell is also a very good player. She really dominated the boards in the fourth quarter."

Bennett was also pleased with the performance of his own team.

"It was a good game to start the season," he said. "There is always a lot of motivation when these two teams play. We missed a lot of shots, but that's to be expected in the first game with such a young team."

Another sophomore, Karen Olack, also played well for the Rockets. The 5-foot-6-inch guard scored 10 points. Erika Smith, one of the few seniors on the Rockets, led the team with eight assists.

Beth Geisler scored nine points for Wayne.

Furlong wasn't happy the Zebras lost, but he did see some positive things in the first game.

"We only had eight practices to prepare. We will get better as the season goes on," he said.

The Zebras will participate in the Taylor tournament this weekend before traveling to Ypsilanti Tuesday.

Glenn will play at Ypsilanti today.

Zebras pound
Cougars, 50-7

It wasn't Christmas and that wasn't Kris Kringle wearing a Garden City uniform Friday night, but the Chargers were certainly in a giving mood when they hooked up with Wayne Memorial in the season-opener for both schools.

Three errant Garden City punt-snaps, including two in the first quarter, led to easy Wayne touchdowns as the Zebras pounded their hosts 50-7.

"There is no question the punt-snaps hurt them. They really played a major role in the ball game," said Wayne Memorial Coach Chuck Howton. "But we played a good football game. I was very pleased with how we played."

The Zebras led 21-0 after the first quarter as Brent Tapp, Greg Walker and Laron Price each rushed for scores. Senior Larry Johnson set up the third touchdown with an interception at the Garden City 30-yard line.

Johnson is considered one of the best athletes in the area and should attract scouts from several colleges. Johnson, a 6-foot defensive back, also plays split end and caught a 19-yard touchdown pass from Tapp for the Zebras fourth score. Wayne led 24-0 at halftime.

The "in" look for fall includes the classic look, such as this sleek, black dress (left) at Hit or Miss, in Westland. For casual wear, paisleys are key accents for sweaters and vests (right). ANP photos by Werner Slocum/staff photographer

CLASSIC CLOTHES

Fall signals return to paisley, prints, purple

By BARBARA WILSON

Fall fashion for women signals a return to the classics — classic prints and colors.

The men's for women look is history, as are the frilly lace and ruffles reminiscent of the mid-1980s.

This season, "in" are rich burgundies and purples, deep paisleys and sleek, flowing fabrics.

For casual wear, the look is chic and comfortable. The old sweatsuit is taking on a new look — bright colors and bold stripes. Deep pockets, interesting trim and unusual buttons make these "sweatsuits" workable in almost any casual atmosphere.

Denim, of course, still is at the top of the list of fall casual wear. Patterned and colored denim are splattered about in some stores, but most fashion wear salespeople say "plain old blue" is still the most popular.

Short suits — short pants with a jacket — were popular for the summer and remain a big hit for fall. Made of slightly heavier fabrics in darker colors, the outfits are fun to wear and look classy, according to a manager of the Hit or Miss store, in Westland.

Paired with darker hose and dressier short suits can be appropriate in some office situations.

For a casual evening out, baggy pants in rayon, topped with a blouse and paisley vest, are the ticket for fall. The look is reminiscent of a more Bohemian lifestyle, but it is fun and comfortable, fashion experts say.

For dressier wear, women are turning to classic but feminine looks. Suits with slim skirts and full jackets in silks and rayons are the most popular, according to the Hit or Miss manager.

The suits in solid colors are best, according to fashion experts, because the pieces can be mixed and matched with other items in the closet. In addition, the solid color allows more freedom to add accessories — such as a paisley scarf thrown over the shoulder and fastened with a large brooch, for example.

At Dancer's fashions, in Belleville, plaids are popular in slacks, skirts and blazers, according to Robin Gunther.

Pant suits have also returned for fall weather. The pants, in textured fabrics and with wide legs, are flattering to most figures and are comfortable in the cooler temperatures.

Dresses are losing popularity, according to some salespeople. Dresses that are sold tend to be quite plain and are purchased because of their "accessory flexibility." A jacket, jewelry, vest or scarf can be added to create a new look.

Rayon continues to be the fabric of choice for most women, regardless of the extra care required. Some rayons are washable, but most need to be dry-cleaned. The fabric, however, has received rave reviews because of the way it makes women feel — slinky, dressed-up and comfortable all at the same time.

Gone are the days of pink and other pastels. Fall means the return of racks and racks of deep purples, rich burgundies, warm olive-greens and mustards. The colors are deep and are available in many different shades, Gunther said. ■

Women pondering apparel choices for fall should consider a color palette filled with golds, rusts and olives for business suits (left) and the trendy "dandy look" (right) - black pants, vests and rust blouse - for that chic appearance.

LOOK CLOSELY

Examine threads and snags before buying new clothes

By FLORENCE MEEKS

As tempting as some clothes can be when they first catch the eye, a closer look can save time and money down the road.

Too many people fall in love with a blouse or jacket before checking quality, said Susan Bradley, a seamstress at Sofia's Tailoring and Alterations, in Livonia. Commonly overlooked are missing buttons and faulty zippers, she said.

A true test of quality is strength of the seams. Bradley has heard horror stories of clothing practically falling apart after the first washing.

"And once they have been washed the clothes can't be returned," Bradley said.

She suggests watching for loose thread and frayed edges on seams.

For men, their downfall comes when they fail to check the fit of jackets as well as pants when buying suits, she continued.

Lucy Dorazio, owner of Lucy's Alterations, in Livonia, agreed a close look at stitching is crucial before a purchase.

"The work done on the clothes makes the difference," she said. "The first thing I look at is the seams."

In addition to loose threads, Dorazio suggests watching for seams that gather or pucker.

Fred Murfarreh owns Thimble Wiz Tailor, in Westland. He has a checklist of factors for clothes shoppers which includes uneven hems and dangling buttons.

Murfarreh suggests gently tugging clothes to test the seams.

Relying on designer names or labels, however, is not a good indication of quality, he said.

"That doesn't prove a thing," Murfarreh said. ■

SPLIT PERSONALITY

Fall men's attire is both adventurous, conservative

By DANIEL CALABRESE

Casual wear may take on a more adventurous flair for men, but the catchword remains "conservatism" when it comes to office clothing for the fall.

Local clothing retailers say fall trends in men's fashions are not running out of the ordinary, but that casual clothing tends to be blazing a few new paths.

T-shirts under vests is the latest trend in men's wear, according to Tina Lloyd, manager of the men's department at Kohl's, in Westland Center.

Strange as it sounds, the trend receives passing grades from some in the industry.

"I like it," Lloyd said. "I think it looks great."

The trend has gone far enough now, she said, that there are already some variations to it.

Sometimes the vest is worn with a turtleneck, Lloyd said, while at other times a western-style accessory is added.

"For a little more diversity, instead of a t-shirt, they're wearing a bolo," she said.

Vests tend to be solid or print, sometimes in paisley, Lloyd said.

The most popular fashion in casual pants this year, according to Lloyd, is Bugle Boy Jeans, which feature some detail, such as pockets and patches.

In color, the successor to the chalkboard-like jeans design of previous years appears to be a "pepperwash" design, which includes black with blue features.

Angie Stewart, manager of Dancer's Fashions in Belleville, agreed that Bugle Boy Jeans are the most popular in casual pants, which continue to be dominated by denim. Many such jeans are complemented, she said, by additional pockets and zippers.

Sweaters and turtlenecks are also a part of the casual line this fall, Stewart said, while black and white are the dominant colors.

But while the personality of casual wear continues to evolve, Lloyd said people continue to be cautious in choosing their office wear.

"Generally, it stays pretty conservative," Lloyd said.

Unlike the 1970s, when wide ties were the rule, or the early 1980s, when very thin ties were popular, Lloyd said ties this year are following the middle-of-the-road.

Of those, she said, the most popular are the dark red, "power ties," which are designed to help the professional person assert himself.

Professional men continue to look for the standard slacks, shirts and coats. In the era of coin-operated laundry, she said, fabric often becomes more important than color or other styles.

"I think the biggest thing people are looking for is washable fabrics," she said. ■

Men are encouraged to be adventurous with casual wear this fall, but the sophisticated, traditional look is still most appropriate for the office, according to designers at Kohl's, in Westland. ANP photo by Werner Stocum/staff photographer

The quaint little shop with the pink awning is a far cry from the real-estate office she once called "home." But Kathy Hart is pleased with the change.

Tickles & Giggles is the name of Hart's new store, located in downtown Plymouth. The store caters to children who have a taste for the unusual in fashion.

Inside are designer clothing items, each handmade in a sewing room above the store.

"It's just like the sewing room at home," Hart explained.

After 20 years of selling real estate, Hart decided to try something new. Two years ago, she started sewing and, subsequently, decided to form her own business.

At first, Hart tried to sell her clothes through home parties, but that didn't "feel right," she said. She then attempted to sell her wares in other retail stores.

This, too, was unacceptable.

"I wasn't making money, because I sold the clothes to them for wholesale, and then they marked the clothes up," Hart said. "I finally thought I needed a store where I can show my things."

Hart is the mother of adult men. She has three granddaughters to dress in her children's fashions.

"I don't have much time to actually sew things for them. But, when they visit the store, they usually find something they want," Hart explained.

Tickles & Giggles has been open for only 12 weeks, and Hart is still cautious about her inventory. She makes only a few of each design and displays her work in the showroom — located beneath her Forest Street workshop.

Customers may purchase items on the spot or order specific sizes. Hart will also special-make clothing for those who have that "special something" in mind.

"I have the pattern books here, and we can pick out some fabric, or they can bring in their own," Hart said.

"I have made a couple of mother-daughter outfits," Hart said. "One woman even came in and wanted something in the same fabric made for her husband."

Hart and another seamstress work in the store. Two others — working out of their homes — join the sewing team when the orders begin pouring in.

Hart also sells handcrafted items made by other people, such as teddy bears.

Already popular at the store, Hart said, are children's clothing baskets. Inside are an assortment of clothing. Some baskets include matching shorts, shirts, socks and a toy.

The baskets are popular for new mothers, Hart said, as she imagined a future basket-delivery service to hospitals and new mothers.

Prices of items at Tickles & Giggles vary, depending on fabrics and design. Nevertheless, Hart said, her wares are inexpensive because she purchases materials at wholesale prices. ■

PRETTY IN PINK

Here comes the bride, all dressed in new traditions

By FLORENCE MEEKS

Here comes the bride, all dressed in pink. Pink? Traditions in bridal wear are apparently changing, according to area retailers. Many first-time brides are deciding white is not a requirement for a wedding gown.

"The girls are getting brave and choosing colors that flatter them," said Marge Komender, consultant for the Jacobson's bridal department, in Dearborn.

Pink and ivory are the top two choices for those breaking with tradition. The courage to change tradition is perhaps the product in another changing trend.

"Girls are marrying a little older. They are accustomed to choosing their own lifestyle," Komender said.

If pink wedding gowns seem unique, imagine the bridesmaids in black.

"It's really stunning," said Doris Conlin, co-owner of Conlin Brides Showcase, in Ann Arbor.

The first request for black came three years ago. Conlin's staff was shocked at the time. They did not carry black gowns.

"None of us could believe anyone would want black," she laughed.

This fall, however, Conlin is prepared to meet this growing demand. In fact, she said, bridesmaids in black create a lovely contrast to a bride in white. Or a bride in pink.

Despite these seemingly drastic changes in bridal fashion, many traditions live on, Conlin said.

In the area of fabrics, satins remain the top choice. Also popular is taffeta and tulle organza for a frosty look.

Although it is expensive, silk remains an option for gowns, Komender said.

In addition, many brides still prefer to be formal, opting for long sleeves and long trains. ■
